Woods Rogers PLC Principal Named to Virginia Law Foundation's 2008 Class of Fellows

Roanoke, VA—January 21, 2008 - Mark Loftis, Principal and Chair of the Litigation Section at Woods Rogers, was one of 21 members of the Virginia State Bar to be inducted to the 2008 Class of Fellows.

To encourage and recognize excellence in the practice of law and public service, the Virginia Law Foundation (VLF) created the Fellows of the Virginia Law Foundation. Induction as a Fellow of the VLF is a special honor awarded by the VLF Board to selected Virginia attorneys, law professors, and retired members of the judiciary who are deemed to be outstanding in their profession and in their community. Total membership of the Fellows is limited to one percent of the active and associate membership of the Virginia State Bar.
